Green Earth

Different source, same quality

Green Earth planters are the result of investments in research and Japi's commitment to the environment, bringing innovation and new sustainable solutions.

The Green plastic came from the combination of Brazil's highly developed sugar cane and ethanol industry, which helps to reduce green house gas emissions.

From the state of Minas Gerais, in Southeastern Brazil, comes the inspiration for this line. The history of Minas, as the state is called by its inhabitants, is marked by the mining of precious stones and metals, such as diamonds, gold and other unique glamorous decorative minerals. Japi Pottery, as one of the world's leading resin flower pots producer, brings, in 2015, this exclusive Brazilian stone effect to make your flowers and trees look even better.

Solus Self watering planter is the perfect way to irrigate indoor plants. This system allows you not to have to water your plants as often and also keeps the soil moist if you are going away on holiday or just want to save time.

Using a self-watering planter also reduces your gardening duties to a minimal. As the roots grow and reach the bottom of the planter, they receive nourishment from the water in the reservoir.

Soil is kept moist by a wick that dips into the water of the reservoir; the Solus reservoir holds approximately 8 gallons or 30 liters of water, which is enough to water your plants for up to 12 weeks, depending on plant type and location.

HOW TO USE

Add potting soil to the planter, insert plant with roots, and fill the planter with soil. Compact soil well. During the first three months, continue to water the plants from above through the soil. After this period of time you can use the fill dispositive and the plant will supply itself from the reservoir. After three months, your plant's roots will have grown far enough into the moist area that they will be able to obtain water from the reservoir without your assistance. Refill the water reservoir only after the water level indicator is at "Minimum". It is also a good idea to sometimes add some water soluble fertilizer.

Rotomolding Process

Japi planters are made out of polyresin by rotational molding process in 9 different colors such as Coffee, Sandstone, Charcoal and Terracotta, with the possibility of white wash and patina finishes. Inspired by Italian terracotta planters and following the most recent tendencies of the international market, we perfectly reproduce the color texture and appearance of the traditional garden clay planters.

Our raw material is non-toxic, UV protected and 100% recyclable. The Planters do not chip or crack when exposed to the most diverse weather conditions. We are proud to make a lightweight, all-weather, and unbreakable product.

Rotational Molding Process

The rotational molding process is a high-temperature, low-pressure plastic-forming process that uses heat and biaxial rotation (angular rotation on two axes) to produce hollow one-piece parts. A feature of the process is its long cycle times - only one or two cycles per hour can typically occur, as opposed to other processes such as injection molding, where parts can be made in a few seconds. The main advantages of this process are its capacity to manufacturing resistant, lightweight and large pieces, like planters and water tanks. Little quantity of material is wasted, making it a environmentally viable manufacturing process.
